

SERIES B · INVESTOR OVERVIEW

The company for governed downward force.

Yeeterprise operationalizes the world's oldest instinct — throwing things on the ground — into an audited, enterprise-grade platform.

THE PROBLEM

Everyone throws things. Nobody governs it.

Every organization commits objects to the ground — printers, staplers, whole quarters of hope. It is unmodeled, unrecorded, and unregretted only by accident. The world throws 1.4 billion times a day with zero assurance.

- ▶ Ungoverned: no policy on what must never be thrown.
- ▶ Unobservable: no arc modeling, no apex forecast.
- ▶ Unattested: no certificate the throw ever happened.
- ▶ Unbounded regret: measured by no one, felt by everyone.

THE PLATFORM

One governed pipeline, from wind-up to ground contact.

MODEL

Trajectory Cloud

Forecast the arc and apex before a single object leaves the hand. 99.2% modeling accuracy.

GOVERN

Do-Not-Yeet

A registry of 54 protected classes, enforced at launch. The control that holds regret at zero.

ATTEST

Ground Contact

A signed, immutable certificate for every throw. Full audit ledger, eventually consistent.

TRACTION

The number that matters has never moved.

1.4

B

Governed throws / day

$38

M

ARR, +140% YoY

2,400

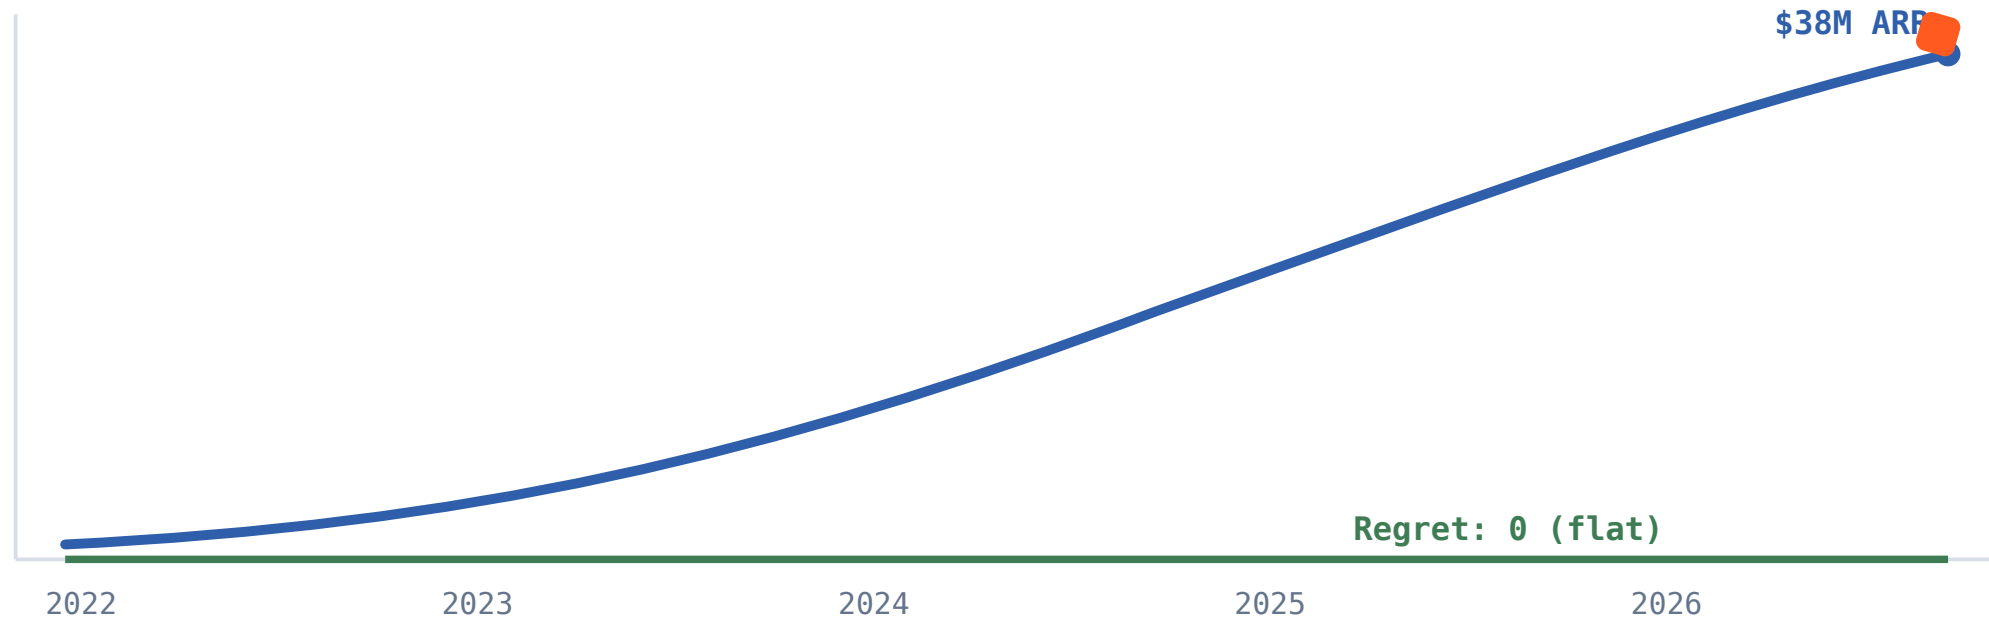

Enterprise workspaces

0

Regret incidents, all-time

FINANCIALS

Revenue climbs. Regret stays on the floor. By design.

The moat is the restraint.

- ▶ The registry is the network effect: every incident teaches it a new protected class no competitor has.
- ▶ Switching cost is the audit ledger: years of signed certificates, non-portable by design.
- ▶ Category ownership: we defined governed downward force. The RFPs now cite us by name.

Anyone can throw accurately. Only Yeeterprise can prove, in writing, what an organization refused to throw. That proof is the product, and it compounds.

THE ASK

Raising a Series B to put it down, everywhere.

$45

M

Series B, led by a returning partner

40

%

Registry R&D — new protected classes, global policy

60

%

Go-to-market — the enterprises that throw at scale

GROUND TRUTH, DELIVERED.

Come put it down gently, at scale.

investors@yeeterprise.com